Re: Spider

Thank you so much for helping Spider's true colors show through.

After taking him to two trainers, everyone had given up on him but me. I was told he could never be trusted or ridden and that I should take him to the sale barn and just get rid of him. I brought him to your ranch, visited him weekly and in a matter of a couple of months, I was able to ride him not only in the indoor arena but out on the beautiful trails through the hills behind your ranch too. He had a calm demeanor about him around everyone he came in contact with, which before he had only shared with me.

Patience, understanding, trust and knowledge were the right combination for Spider, as I believe, is for many horses. He will always be a bit of a handful but that's the way God made him. The way you work with horses is a gift and I would recommend your services to anyone. I love that horse; you helped me realize a dream.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Smith
